REVISED STATUTES OF KENTUCKY,

NEW EDITION.

BY HON. R. H. STANTON.

This valuable work, prepared with great accuracy, and labor, by the Hon. R. H. STANTON, of Mays ville, Ky., contains the Revised Statutes of Kentucky. as originally adopted in 1851-1852, with all the amend ments thereto, and general laws of the State, enacted since and up to the present time; thus embodying the addition to the very great convenience of having a the Staintory Law condensed into a single work well arranged, the text of these volumes is illustrated and enriched by full and copious notes of the Decisions of the Court of Appeals of Kentucky, settling the con struction of such provisions as may beretofore have been of doubtful or uncertain meaning. Those en gaged in the administration of the law in Kentucky. will be saved much labor of research by thus having, in a small compass and condensed form, the whole practical working of the Statutory System of the State. In truth, the work will be found of great value to all classes of persons. The work is comprised in TWO ROYAL OCTAVO VOLUMES, printed with new, clear type, upon the very best paper, and bound in superior law binding

THE VESPER GAS. OR AIR LIGHT.

The Cheapest, most Brilliant, and most Conveni-The Cheapest, most Brilliant, and most Convenient ent Artificial Light in the World!

THE Vesper Gas Light has won for itself a reputation I for eleganco, economy, safety, and simplicity far beyond any other artificial light. The Vesper Gas flame and fixtures precisely resemble in form those of coal gas; but in brilliancy and purity of light it possesses a decided advantage over eyen Louisville coal gas. It requires no chimney; there is no need of daily trimming of wick; and the construction of the fixture is so simple that it is not liable to get out of order, and a child can manage it readily. The gas burned in the Vesper fixtures is generated from pure coal oil, without any admixture of alcohol or other oreign ingredient. It is entirely free from odor while burning, as, by a simple contrivance, the vapor of the oil is mixed with the atmosphere, producing perfect combustion and a most linenselight. The light has been pronounced, by those who have had it in constant use for months, as most pleasant to the eye while reading or sewing, there being no flicker or unsteadiness in the flame. The Vesper Gas Light is portable, and can be used in town or country—in fact, wherever artificial light is required. The fixtures themselves are adapted in styles to suit all tastes, from the plain single-light burner to the most coatly chandeller. Each chandeller is perfect in itself, there is no outlay to be made for service pipes. The gas is generated in the burner, and all fixtures, from the cheap single-light burner to the most coatly chandeller, and on manemation. A price list will be sent to any address on application.

HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS.

The proprietors and manufacturers of HOS-TETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BIT TERS can appeal with perfect confidence to physicians and citizens generally of the United States, because the article has attained a reputation heretofore unknown. A few facts up this point will speak more powerfully than volumes of bare assertion or blazoning puffery. The consumption of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters for the last year amounted to over a halfmillion bottles, and from its manifest steady increase in times past, it is evident that during the coming year the consumption will reach near one million bottles. This immense amount could never have been sold but for the rare medicinal properties contained in the prepara-tion, and the sanction of the most prominent physicians in those sections of the country where the article is best known, who not only recommend the Bitters to their patients, but are ready at all times to give testimonials to its efficacy in all cases of stomachic derangements and the diseases resulting therefrom.

This is not a temporary popularity, obtained by extraordinary efforts in the way of trumpeting the qualities of the Bitters, but a solid estimation of an invaluable medicine, which is destined to be as enduring as time itself.

Hostetter's Stomach Bitters have proved a Godsend to regions where fever and and various other bilious complaints have counted their victims by hundreds. To be able to state confidently that the "Bitters" are a certain cure for the Dyspensia and like diseases, is to the proprietors a source of unalloyed pleasure. It removes all morbid matter from the stomach, purifies the blood, and imparts renewed vitality to the nervous system, giving it that tone and energy indispensable for the restoration of health. It operates upon the stomach, liver, and other digestive organs, mildly but powerfully, and soon restores them to a condition essential to the healthy discharge of the functions of nature. Elderly persons may use the Bitters daily as per directions on the bottle, and they will find in it a stimulant peculiarly adapted to comfort declining years, as it is pleasant to the palate, invigorating to the bowels, excellent as a tonic, and rejuvenating generally. We have the evidence of thousands of aged men and women who have experienced the benefit of using this preparation while suffering from stomach derangements and general debility; acting under the advice of physicians, they have abandoned all deleterious drugs and fairly tested the merits of this article. A few words to the gentler sex. There are certain periods when their cares are so harassing that many of them sink under the trial. The relation of mothe, and child is so absorbingly tender, that the mother, especially if she be young, is apt to forget her own health in her extreme anxiety for her infant. Should the period of maternity arrive during the summer season, the wear of body and mind is generally aggravated. Here, then, is a necessity for a stimulant to recuperate the energies of the system, and enable the mother to bear up under her exhausting trials and responsibilities. Nursing mothers gene rally prefer the Bitters to all other invigora tors that receive the endorsement of physicians, because it is agreeable to the taste as well as certain to give a permanent increase of bodily strength. All those persons, to whom we have particularly referred above, to wit: sufferers from fever and ague, caused by malaria, diarrhoes, dysentery, indigestion, loss of appetite, and all diseases or derangements of the stomach, superannuated invalids, persons of sedentary occupation, and nursing mothers, will consult their own physical welfare by giving to Hos-tetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters a trial. CAUTION.—We caution the public against using any of the many imitations or counterfeits, but ask for Hostetter's Celebrated STONACH BITTERS, and see that each bottle has the words "Dr. J. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters" blown on the side of the bottle, and stamped on the metallic cap covering the cork, and observe that our autograph signature is on the label

It gave full power, for one run 42 inch Burrs, Bolts, Smut Mill, &c., with the gate ¾ open. I therefore take pleasure in paying you for it, believing that I now have a wheel that will last me 20, perhaps 50 years.

As an advocate of colonization in speaking thus of the slave trade and of the fugitive slave law, I may perhaps have gone out of my way, and as I now desire to say something further on the subject of slavery, perhaps it may be thought that I go still further out of my path. Be it so. I yield, however, to no man the right to think for me, and on all suitable occasions to express

n my own way what my thoughts are. I say, then, as to slavery, first, that I am sure, in an abstract view of it, there is no sin in it .--Abraham owned slaves; was he therefore a sinfather whose christian virtues adorned his life, Gentlemen wishing extra copies of eith- as those virtues do that of his son. the constitution, but soberly, deliberately; i pressed with the question, will we maintain the institution of slavery at the expense of the Union of the States? How shall we answer? I know that to preserve the Union in its beauty, in its perfection, in its power, and in its glory, we would all of us not only sacrifice our interests and just rights by yielding whatever slaves we de Beauharnais, and she was neice of the Embut would, like Curtius of old, to save the Re press Josephine, and the adopted daughter of public, leap in full armor into a yawning gulf, Napoleon 1. Born in 1789, she was married in does not meet the issue. Shall the South hold her slaves and let the government, the most glo Grand Duchess, at the time of her death, was in rious and noble and magnificent structure ever framed for human happiness, tremble into ruins, or shall she yield her rights and surrender them, secured as they are by the constitution of the States? If it were ever to come to the practical issue, through our miserable and unhappy sec tional divisions, and the anti-slave party, whether abolition proper or republican improper, had the inclination and the power, political and spherical, to enforce its wishes with regard to slavery-were it ever to come to the issue, sla very or dissolution, what would be the answer God forbid that such an issue ever be formed!-I believe that it never can be, and that we will not be put to that dread emergency. But in contemplation of its mere possibility, I will say for myself, and I believe I may say for you that we will never give up the Union, nor will we abandon our constitutional rights. Both are equally dear to us. We will not sucrender the institution of slavery except by our own free choice, and this not until our interest and han piness demand it of us. We mean to adhere to t, and we mean to abide by the Union; and we are determined that whenever our constitutional rights, as slaveholders, are attacked, this must be while we are in the Union; and if thus attacked, the Union must and will protect us, and we will give the mighty soul of the South, with all its great powers as an auxilliary, to the govern-ment under the Union, even to the death struggle in the preservation of those rights. Two of those who have preceeded me in dressing you at your annual meetings—the Hon Henry Clay and the Rev. Jno. A. McClung—presented in their speeches problems with regard to slavery then unsolved, but both of which the lapse of time has solved, the one completely as I think can be shown, and the other within the scope of a reasonable probability, and the developments of a few more years only are necessary to make the matter plain to all observant minds. Both theories were wrong. I speak with diffidence. Mr. Clay's was that the competition between free and slave labor would extinguish slavery. That is, that by the increase of the white population of the United States, free labor would supply the demand for labor, and because free labor was preferable to slave labor, that therefore the owners of slaves objects of commercial gain. When, bowever could not afford to own them, and would be in 1808, under the provisions of laws in accord obliged to dispose of them in some form or oth-A meeting of the Board of Directors of the er; and he argued that the institution of slavery years ago, every indication within the range of from the several local Societies in the State, propositions for holding with them the Fifth An- and comprehensively collating its utterances on the subject of slavery, its increase and that the whole population, the comparative value of free and slave labor, estimated in regard to each in ments of the extent of their grounds, the size detail, and by a comparison of these estimates with the then existing state of affairs, no prob lem could have been presented to be worked out in future with more apparent certainty of its for example, she not being either a cotton grow truth than this. Since that day, however, many great and unlooked for events in our history have transpired, none of which could possibly have been foreseen by the eye of any statesman, unless his soul have been indued with the hal-lowed fire of the Prophets of old. Were Mr. Clay before you on this occasion. I doubt not he would say to you this much and more, that free labor cannot fully, upon slave territory, compete with slave la bor, as that territory is at present goographical ly bounded, and whilst, as a great philanthro-pist, he would adhere to his long cherished and well maintained sentiments in favor of emancipation, he would be obliged to acknowledge that case at all practicable at this time. Mr. McClung's theory was that slavery would ist, nor by the hot and inconsiderate haste of the finally become extinct, under the operation of nullifier, both of whom work for this bad end; laws arising from its inherent character, and blinded, the one by imaginary fancies and illu which were constantly sapping its foundations.

As proof of this, he cited the fact that it had, by gradual steps, receded from the Northern portion of the Union, and had retired to the South, leaving behind it no traces whatever except those that gave evidence of slow and pro-tracted but final and certain extinction. This was a passible theory, and the facts brought in that all her institutions, so long as her people Humphrey's heirs v Keith, Harrison; time ex-tended to 3d day of next term for appellee to in the main. It is now demonstrably true, that cotton, sugar and rice cannot be produced remuneratively by free labor. and it is equally true that African slave labor can only make the production of these three great staples of human necessity profitable. slave labor absolutely necessary for the cultiva-tion of grass and grain, each of which enters so duce these as well if not better. Even in

The conclusion to be drawn from these statements in the argument presented is this, that the Northern and Middle States, their principle staples of production grass and grain, do best without slave labor, while the States South must have that character of labor, because it only can successfully cultivate their products which are rice, cotton and sugar, and slavery has therefore left the Northern States, where its labor was not in demand, and retiring firm—their business will be settled up by said T. S. & J. gradually, has finally located itself within the R. Page—W. A. Gaines retaining the Hardware and South where it only can perform the work re-

I may be asked why was it then that slavery ever had a foot-hold in the Northern States In as much as climate and productions of those States are not congenial to it, and the labor of the free white man coming into competition with it accelerated its movement South, until it has at length located itself within a climate unsuited to the white man's constitution, and on a soil whose productions can only be cultivated by the any time the people of the Northern States, in opposition to these causes, were ever the owners slaves? These States, after they became States, and when they were colonies before the day of Independence, all of them were slave States, their people not thinking it was a sin to own slaves, howsoever great the enormity of it may have become since, and much of their wealth consisted of the number and value of last three years Teacher in Mrs. Tevis' School, Shelby their slaves, and yet the labor of the negro slave ville, Preceptress. [Bridgeport, Ky., Jan. 31, 1860. was not adapted or suited to their production, and could not compete with their free white ia-bor, then how did it happen that slavery, as an nstitution, was ever found in their midst? the first place cotton was not then King. Its cultivation was scarcely known, and a staple ommerce and in manufactures it formed an ignificant item, and it did not, until Whitney had invented the cotton gin, and other machinery was called into existence for its perfect manufacture, by which it became an article of general consumption and of prime necessity, as sume that place in commerce and manufactures, which has made it one of the controlling powers of earth. In the next place the Northe wielded the entire merchant service of the na vass of no ships from our shores, but those which opened its bosom first to Northern breezes The slave trade was in the hands of Northern rchapts. Certain it was, to the extent of it existence on this continent, and it continue there until its final abrogation in 1808. trade was one of the grand items in their suc essful commercial enterprizes. It brought into their coffers more of wealth, and gave to merchant princes more of the luxuries of life than any one other interest which was under their control as carriers on the high seas, and their wealth and influence were of course in favor of slavery as domestic institution, and their intercourse with the interior combined with the demand for labor in clearing out dense forests, and in opening up new fields for agriculture, necessarily introduce slavery into those States, and not until experi ence taught the lesson that the employment of slave labor was agains, the interest of the agriculturist and mechanic, were the people of those States at all inclined to abandon it as an institution, and not then until the slave trade was abolished and their merchants were compelled by law to relinquish it, and turn their kee tellects to other enterprizes, and to seek for other ance with the spirit and meaning tution, the slave trade was made finally to succumb, and merchants of Northern cities coul no longer follow it and reap its rewards withou open violation of law, then slavery, its true hom eing in the South, began to recede thitherward and has continued thus to recede till it has found a resting place, where under climatic and other causes it will remain as long as cotton, sugar and rice are staples of consumption, and as long as these enter into the commerce of the ocean It is true it may not have retired as far South as from these causes it would seem it would naturally have gone. We find it in Kentucky, ing or sugar producing State. And why have not these causes operated in Kentucky as they did in Pennsylvania? The cause being the same, why is the effect different? But let it be remembered, that although sugar and cotton are not productions of the soil of Kentucky, ye hemp and tobacco are, and these are duced in the State of Pennsylvania, and whils they may and can be cultivated and prepared fo market by free labor, yet this cannot be done as remuneratively by it as by slave labor, and hence instead of receding back upon Tennessee it re-mains with us. Besides, not long ago the people of Kentucky, in convention, adjudged, in the exercise of their primary powers, that it shall recede no further. And so the ebbing tide of slavery has found its true place of repose, and ts edge attenuated to the mere ripple of a wave show no surface of a further ebb, and back of that ebb there spreads over the entire South a

That which protects from or prevents this disorder must be of immense service in the communities where it prevails. Prevention is offer than cure, for the patient escapes the risk which he must run in violent attacks of this baleful distemper. This "CURE" expels the miasmatic poison of FEVER AND AGUE from the system and prevents the develop-ment of the disease, if taken on the first approach of its premonitory symptoms. It is not only the best remedy ever yet discovered for this class of complaints, but also the cheapest. The large quantity we supply for a dollar brings it within the reach of every body; and in bilious districts, where Fever and Acute prevails, every body should have it and use it freely both for cure and protection. It is hoped this price will place it within the reach of all—the poor as well as the rich. A great superiority of this remedy over any other ever discovered for the speedy and certain cure of Intermittents is, that it contains no Quinine or mineral, consequently it produces no quinism or other injurious effects whatever upon the constitution. Those cured by it are left as healthy as if they had never

Fever and Ague is not alone the consequence of the miasmatic poison. This "CURE" expels the poison from the blood, and consequently cures them all alike. It is an invaluable protection to immigrants and persons travelling or temporarily residing in the malarious districts.
